Dr. Sriram Mudambi

Dr. M Sriram is an MScD in Restorative Dentistry from the National University of Singapore. Having done extensive research in the development of newer restorative materials as a Singapore Government Research Scholar, Dr. Sriram has a number of international publications to his credit.

He is accredited by the United Nations' World Health Organization (WHO) for the implementation of the Atraumatic Restorative Treatment (ART) - the treatment of choice in rural areas that lack adequate dental facilities. He has conducted workshops all over the country to educate dentists and the community on the benefits of the ART technique for restoring teeth.

Dr. Sriram, has an International Post Graduate Management degree from the prestigious Indian School of Business, Hyderabad. His focus areas have been Strategy, Change Management, Branding and Strategic Profitability Management.

Dr. Sriram is also the founder of the Indian Academy of Minimum Intervention Dentistry (IAMID), only the second academy in the world on the topic after the first in Sweden, and is its Founder Secretary. This academy focuses on educating dentists and the public on the benefits of modern concepts of dentistry whose intervention is minimal in comparison to conventional techniques.

Dr. Sriram is based in Hyderabad with an exclusive private dental practice focusing on Minimum Intervention dentistry. He also lectures nationally and internationally on the concepts of Minimum Intervention dentistry and practice management.

Abstract

Restorable dentistry has evolved over the years with advances in lab technologies and predictive implant systems that are currently available to restore single tooth edentulous spaces.

The current techniques are however time consuming as well as invasive, involving multiple patient visits and circumferential reduction if abutments or surgical invasive implants depending on the choice of treatment.

The advent of advanced innovative technologies now just available have completely changed the status quo with regards to restoring a missing tooth. Recent advances in esthetic materials further dramatically improves the end result Vs the current available technologies.

The program focuses on achieving "invisible aesthetics" using advanced restorative esthetic materials and also focuses on delivering single sitting direct bridges that the patient can receive in 20 minutes.
